Introduction

The Plays and Players began publication in October 1953 and quickly became the most important guide to the London theatre scene; it also carried occasional articles on theatre in other venues. It absorbed Theatre World in 1966, Encore in 1969 and Applause in 1999, just before ceasing publication in 2000. It left behind comprehensive documentation of many theatre productions, plus interviews with key theatre personnel.

Marymount Manhattan College's Plays and Players Collection came to the archive from two sources. Professor Kevin Connell of the Division of Fine and Performing Arts deposited an incomplete run from September 1971 to May 1980. Serials Librarian Dolma Adhikari deposited an incomplete run from December 1984/January 1985 to March 2000.

Plays and Players had never been catalogued in Marymount Manhattan College's library catalog, MaMaCat, nor was it indexed in any databases. Accordingly, this finding guide includes a chronological list and an index of the reviews and interviews in the periodical, plus citations to some articles of interest. Each item is identified by the date of the periodical and the page on which it appears.
